Literature

- Music inspires to write beautiful stories.
 - It develops humans' imagination;
 - It makes us dream about incredible things for example fairies, wonderlands and love;

Art

- All types of music can be used for art lessons – simply choose one and it will create the atmosphere – from the most calm to the most dynamic ones.
- And in the end it shows in art projects (colour usage, dimensions, lines etc.)
- Every song shows writer's soul or feelings and when people draw and/or paint they express themselves too.

Sport

- Usage of music in sport activities –
 - Slow music helps in stretching and gymnastics;
 - Rock music helps in intense training;
 - Pop music is good for running.

LEARN ENGLISH THROUGH MUSIC!

Increases Your Vocabulary

Learning the lyrics of a song can help you learn new words. When you sing it many times, you remember these vocabularies more easily. Don't forget, you could also learn some everyday phrases and slang.

Better Comprehension

Music can help us remember the order of words and the basic structure of language. When you learn language as a whole (not just individual rules), you can understand and remember language structure better.

Improves Your Pronunciation

When we sing or listen to music, we pay attention to the rhythm, beat, tone, and shape of the mouth. Singing and listening to music regularly can help us improve our natural speech.

Wakes up your brain

Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords suffered brain damage when a bullet passed through her brain. She lost some of her speech abilities. However, listening to songs has helped her remember words she couldn't say before. Music helped activate her memory!

Remember words and phrases

It's so hard to remember names of people but why is it easy to remember the lyrics to a song (and sometimes can't get it out of your head)? The repetition and catchy tunes means words can stick in our mind for a long long time!

It's fun!

Listening to music is not only a good way to learn, but it's emotionally stimulating. It can uplift us. Listening to something that you like makes learning more motivating and make learning less work!
